

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

for the 3rd year medical students about the teaching activity of the Institute of Pathophysiology academic year 2016/17 (spring semester)

Lectures and practicals:

Attendance is obligatory. You have to be present at 75% of both the lectures and the practicals to get a signature! (Semmelweis University Study and Exam Regulation 17§ (7))

Lectures: We keep an attendance register, where you have to put your own signature beside your name.

Practicals: Tutors keep the attendance register in the E-learning system of Semmelweis University. Students can check their own records after logging in to the e-learning system.

Throughout the semester, irrespective for the reason, you can be absent max. 4 times from lectures, and max. 2 times from practicals.

Tests during the semester

Written MCQ tests:

During the semester, there will be 4 written tests about the lecture material: on the 4th-, 8th-, 13th-, and 15th weeks. Each test consists of 10, simple and multiple choice questions. If your average result (best 3 of 4) is equal or exceeds 90%, you will be exempted from one theoretical question at the final exam.

Test material: 4th week test: (calcium-, kidney-, fluid and electrolyte lectures); 8th week test: (acid-base balance, respiratory system, hemostasis lectures); 13th week test: (pain-, erythropoiesis-, leukemias lectures); 15th week test: (connective tissue-, immune diseases-, aging lectures);.

Form of test: Written, simple and multiple choice questions. You get 1 point for each correct answer.

Retake/improvement: Not possible.

Midterms: On the 7th study week about the materials of practical topics and on the 14th week about the topics of hematology. The midterms are oral.

Retake/improvement: Failed or poorly managed midterm has to be repeated strictly within 1 week with your own tutor.

The results of the tests will be registered in the university e-learning system. Students can check their own records at any time.

Final examinations:

Strictly within the examination period!

Sign-up and changing of the examination dates: using the NEPTUN system.

Exam dates: Announced later. Exams start at 8 am.

Final exam

- Each candidate has to answer 10 questions in writing prior to the exam. The result of this test will be taken into consideration for the final mark by the examiner.
Students are exempted from the previously mentioned 10-question pre-exam test if their average result of the written surveys is equal or greater than 70%.
- After having selected the questions, students are not allowed to leave the room/lab. In case you must go out for whatever reason, you need to get new questions.
- You must not bring food and drinks to the laboratories.
- Cheating during the exam results in the mark of „elégtelen” (1 – failure); and will be reported to the English Secretariat.
- Extra retake exam spots are given upon request if needed.
- Repeated examinations: are possible only after 3 calendar days after the exam.

Homepage:

Useful information about the Institute and the subject of Pathophysiology (lectures and practical notes, exam questions, other supplementary materials) can be found at:

<https://kortan.semmelweis.hu>

Announcements and information:

The announcements will be published on the website, on the bulletin board, the Neptun system and via the mailing list.

Budapest, 23 March 2017.

Dr. Attila Tordai
director